

Anne

We like to imagine P-22 stargazing with some furry pals on the deck of the Griffith Observatory, but the truth is, he'd probably eat that curious raccoon and cute possum. Although mule deer are mountain lions' main prey, smaller mammals such as mice, squirrels, and rabbits are also potential snacks for P-22.